

MINNEAPOLIS ST. PAUL BUSINESS JOURNAL

Vol. 27, No. 25 $2.00

Breaking news all day on the Web: mspbjournal.com

November 27, 2009

Group was named a finalist in two categories of the Forrester Groundswell Awards: the "B2C Talking" category for its work with GoGirl, a device that enables women to go to the bathroom standing up, and the "B2C Listening" category for its work with McNally Smith College of Music, a St. Paul music

AWARDS

Eagan-based ProAct Inc., a nonprofit serving individuals with disabilities, named three companies as the recipients of its "Employer of the Year" awards.

T.J. Maxx of Eagan, Rapala of Eagan and Apothecary Products Inc. of Burnsville were all selected for the award that recognizes companies' efforts in employing people with disabilities.

COMPANY NOTES

CONSTRUCTION

Minnetonka-based Welsh Construction completed the renovation of a 24,174-square-foot retail center for

HEALTH CARE

AGA Medical Holdings Inc., a Plymouth-based medical-device maker, received regulatory approvals and licenses in China for three of its products that combat structural heart defects and vascular diseases.

MANUFACTURING

Horton Inc., of Roseville, introduced its first line of modular fans. Horton is selling the fans as Shogun Modular Fans and they are compatible with viscous fan drives.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

Plymouth-based marketing firm Carlson Marketing Worldwide is teaming with PayPal Inc. to provide new redemption options for participants in Carlson's client loyalty and engagement programs. PayPal, a San Jose-based unit of eBay Inc., will allow participants to shop online with any retailer that accepts PayPal.

Roepke Public Relations, Minneapolis, was selected by Cane