PROACT NAMES EXPERIENCED PLACEMENT SPECIALIST TO PROMOTE JOB OPPORTUNITIES FOR PEOPLE WITH DISABILITIES IN HUDSON

Kyle Adams has been appointed job developer at ProAct in Hudson, the nonprofit's only Wisconsin location. Adams will play the key role in finding employment opportunities for people with disabilities.

“Kyle’s ability to connect with employers and to communicate the benefits provided by our workers has been crucial,” said Sally Ogren, director of programs and services for ProAct in Red Wing. A native of southeastern Wisconsin, Adams brought years of experience to ProAct’s Red Wing location in 2011. He is a graduate of UW-Stout with bachelor’s degrees in human development and family studies and has received specialized training.

He has found work for a number of people with disabilities in Pierce and Pepin counties, and now adds St. Croix County to his responsibilities. “Employers are finding that we offer a lot of continuing support, including job coaching and regular job site checks,” said Adams. Those hiring people with disabilities typically find them to be more reliable, and dedicated, as well, he explained.
