

NEIGHBORS' CORNER

ProAct's city of Red Wing cleaning crew members Kevin Fosberg, Steve Hager, supervisor Dave Dankers and Larry Dietrich pose for a photo.

ProAct helps keep city clean

When two city of Red Wing janitorial staff retired in 2012, a team from ProAct Inc. started working on cleaning and upkeep throughout the city. The workload has increased since then as the crews proved themselves, ProAct said.

They care for multiple city buildings, wastewater, waste management and maintenance structures as well as Oakwood Cemetery, Colvill Courtyard and parking ramp stairwells.

Recently the crew took on four more city buildings, ProAct said, including city hall.

"My guys take a lot of pride in their work," supervisor Dave Dankers said. "You can see by how independent they are."

Crew members say they enjoy being out in the community as well.

"There's more of a variety here," member Steve Hager said.

Here, the ProAct city cleaning crew poses for a photo in Red Wing. Individuals with disabilities at ProAct manage a busy cleaning schedule for city buildings such as the Colvill Courtyard building, which is rented out for special events.